Foreword

I am pleased to present the 2014 Annual Report of An Garda Síochána that details the work carried out by the organisation on behalf of the State, its communities and its people.

2014 saw An Garda Síochána face many challenges. However, we are determined these events will come to define the organisation in a positive manner. The challenges we faced gave us an opportunity to evaluate numerous aspects of how we carry out our work and we began putting in place an extensive transformation programme.

In doing this, we are taking on board the views of our members, previous reports and most importantly the views of the public. We have dedicated hard-working Garda members, staff and Reserves who are open to a culture of change, placing the needs of the public at the heart of everything we do.

This Annual Report is a real demonstration of the professionalism, dedication and commitment shown by our staff. Although it cannot possibly cover the multitude of activities undertaken by our people, it does show the benefits of our focus on maintaining and strengthening our long-standing relationships with communities.

From successes in tackling burglaries to significant drug seizures as a result of intelligence-led policing, to protecting and supporting vulnerable people and groups, these would not have been possible without the support and engagement of communities.

Partnership is also at the heart of maintaining our national security. During the year, we worked closely with national and international colleagues, especially the Police Service of Northern Ireland, to disrupt and thwart subversive activity through arrests and major seizures of firearms and explosives.

We also worked hard with stakeholders such as the Road Safety

Authority in conjunction with the general public, to make our roads safer through education and enforcement. Unfortunately, last year saw another increase in road deaths. While the level of road deaths in 2014 was half that in 2004, one death is one too many and is the cause of untold heartbreak to the loved ones left behind. We will continue to maintain a strong focus on road safety, but all of us as road users also have to take personal responsibility for our behaviour on the roads and ensure we travel with care and consideration for others.

Our partnerships with Government Departments, State bodies and key stakeholders are also vital. A prime example of this was the joint operation in September between An Garda Síochána, Revenue Customs and the Irish Navy, assisted by agencies in France, the UK, and Portugal, to seize cocaine worth approximately €358m off the coast of Cork.

As with all other public sector bodies, An Garda Síochána introduced a range of measures designed to increase efficiencies and cut costs, while ensuring we maintained an effective police service.

While these efficiencies, allied to the changes in how we operate, means policing is being delivered differently, our focus on protecting and supporting communities, and particularly victims of crime, remains steadfast.

In a very welcome development, 2014 saw the re-introduction of new students to the Garda College for the first time since 2009. I am confident the injection of new ideas and abilities they will provide, combined with our experienced and knowledgeable people, will ensure An Garda Síochána continues to evolve, innovate and serve the citizens of the country with distinction, creating a police service, in which our communities can have pride, confidence and trust.

Nóirín O'Sullivan

Commissioner of An Garda Síochána

Fighting Crime

Criminal Assets Bureau

The Criminal Assets Bureau was established by Government in 1996. The Bureau's remit is to target the assets, wherever situated, of persons which derive or are suspected to derive, directly or indirectly, from criminal conduct.

Since its inception the Bureau has been at the forefront of fighting organised crime.

The Bureau is a statutory body with staff drawn from An Garda Síochána, the Office of the Revenue Commissioners (including Customs), the Department of Social Protection and the Department of Justice and Equality.

The Bureau is obliged, pursuant to Section 21 of the Criminal Assets Bureau Act 1996/05, to present a report to the Minister of its activities for the preceding year.

During 2014, assets targeted by the Bureau emanated from crimes associated with drug trafficking, fraud, theft, fuel laundering, cigarette smuggling and foreign corruption.

Divisional Asset profilers trained by the Bureau continue to provide a criminal asset profiling service in each Garda Division to target criminals operating within their area, with particular reference to targeting middle ranking drug dealers and others benefiting by derived assets from criminal activity.

On the international scene, during 2014, the Bureau continued to participate in the Camden Assets Recovery Inter-Agency Network (CARIN).

CARIN is an international informal network of experts-practitioners in the field of asset tracing, freezing and confiscation.

The Criminal Assets Bureau continues to participate in the Cross Border Excise Group and the Cross Border Fuel Group, two bodies targeting illegal smuggling of tobacco and alcohol and the laundering of fuel. The Criminal Assets Bureau also continues to be an active member of the ARO (Assets Recovery Offices) framework and is a member of the sub-group

Garda National Drugs Unit

The Garda National Drugs Unit (GNDU) has overall primary responsibility for Drug Law Enforcement. It has a national and international remit and works in collaboration with Revenue's Customs Service, the Irish Navy and the Police Service of Northern Ireland.

The GNDU carries out long term strategic and short term tactical investigations into the activities of Organised Crime Gangs (OCGs) based both here and on the European continent from where drug traffickers ply their trade to the detriment of Irish communities. The GNDU liaises with other European Police Forces and has strategic partners in the United Kingdom, Spain, Holland and Belgium; countries where OCGs affecting the Irish jurisdiction tend to be the most proactive.

In 2014 the Garda National Drugs Unit arrested 60 persons in connection with drug trafficking offences with €698,234,000 of controlled drugs seized which included Cocaine, Heroin, Herbal Cannabis, Cannabis Resin and Ecstasy. In total 43 significant seizures were made.

Among the most successful investigations carried out by the Garda National Drugs Unit in 2014 were:

Operation Ironstone: A strategic drugs investigation into drug importation within the State resulting in a number of significant drug seizures (8) with a total value of €6.7m.

Operation Really: A strategic drugs investigation into illicit drugs importation into the State resulting in a number of significant seizures (7) with a total value of €7.1 m.

Operation Ledger: A strategic illicit drugs investigation into drug importation and distribution within the State resulted in the seizure of Cannabis Herb with a value of €5.4 m.

Operation Valsa: This was a strategic drugs investigation with the Garda National Drugs Unit liaising with the Marine Analysis and Operations Centre in Lisbon, The Joint Task Force and The Irish Navy which resulted in the seizure of 1,025 Kgs of Cocaine off the Cork coast. The value of the seizure is €358,750,000.

Operation Fleece: This was a strategic drugs investigation with the Garda National Drugs Unit liaising with the Marine Analysis and Operations Centre in Lisbon, and the Spanish authorities which resulted in the seizure of 600 Kgs of Cocaine off the Spanish coast. The value of the seizure is €210,000,000.

Operation Obeo: This was a strategic drugs investigation with the Garda National Drugs Unit liaising with the English Police which resulted in the seizure of 300 Kgs of Cocaine in Portsmouth, England. The value of the seizure is €105,000,000.

Test Purchase Operations:

Targeting mid range and low level drug dealers nationwide. As a result of these tactical investigations, 55 dealers were arrested in respect of 251 criminal offences.

National Drugs Strategy 2009-2016:

The strategic objective of the National Drugs Strategy 2009-16 is to continue to tackle the harm caused to individuals and society by the misuse of drugs through a concerted focus on the five pillars of supply reduction, prevention, treatment, rehabilitation and research. An Garda Síochána is committed to tackling the supply of drugs at all levels in keeping our commitment to the National Drugs Strategy. Garda Policy is reflected in the National Drugs Strategy and as part of the delivery of drug policy, An Garda Síochána have the responsibility for the implementation of 15 Actions under the Strategy.

In response to the issue of Drug Related Intimidation under Action 5 of the National Drug Strategy 2009 – 2016, An Garda Síochána has developed a clear policy as recommended under the Strategy in conjunction with the National Family Support Network. A framework has been developed 'the Drug Related Intimidation Reporting Programme' and is now in place on a National level. An Inspector has been nominated in every Garda Division throughout the country to act as the single point of contact (SPOC) to ensure that there is an appropriate and effective response to this issue. An Garda Síochána will ensure a confidential, safe and effective means of dealing with reports of intimidation and providing families with sufficient support. An Garda Síochána continue to meet our obligations under the National Drugs Strategy 2009-16.

The work of the Garda National Drugs Unit in 2014 has had a major impact on the drug trafficking community both here and abroad. The arrest and prosecution of individuals involved in drug trafficking activities and the disruption of supply routes has severely impacted on those intent on destroying the fabric of Irish society through the illicit drugs trade.

Operation Fiacla

Operation Fiacla was initiated to target suspects engaged in robbery, aggravated burglary and burglary offences throughout the jurisdiction. It is a national Garda operation with focus on offenders defined as Inter-Regional Travelling Criminals (IRTCs) under An Garda Síochána's National Crime Model. It supports the six regional anti-burglary operations by targeting IRTC's on a national basis using the resources available to National Support Services, Garda Síochána Analysis Service and Crime and Security.

The number of persons arrested and charged as part of Operation Fiacla and the supporting Regional Operations for the period 01/01/2014 to 31/12/2014 is as follows:

- Number of Persons Arrested: 4,078.
- Number of Persons Charged: 2,369.

Data analysis at a national level shows that there has been a considerable level of success in relation to reducing the number of burglary offences committed since Operation Fiacla was introduced.

Garda Air Support Unit

In 2014 GASU aircraft flew over 1,250 hours on 1,376 flights while attending to over 2,100 incidents covering almost every Garda Division throughout the country; this included almost 300 night flying hours.

Operation Fiacla

The Garda Air Support Unit supported Operation Fiacla with 71 incidents attended during the year. The Unit was involved in the arrests of 18 suspects and three vehicles were located.

The Air Support Unit was also involved in a wide-range of incidents in 2014.

Some examples outlined below:

Incident 1

While on patrol a crew responded to a report of a robbery at a restaurant in north Kildare. A suspect had held up staff at knifepoint, but nothing was taken. The crew conducted a search of the area using the thermal image camera (TI) and located a person acting suspiciously in a park. The crew contacted ground units while simultaneously tracking the suspect through numerous estates. They could see that the person was carrying something in his hand, he went behind some trees and came back out without the object. Shortly afterwards he was arrested by ground units directed to his location by the helicopter crew. The crew then directed the ground units to the area where he had discarded items and a balaclava, knife and jacket were recovered.

Incident 2

On a November night a crew were requested by Command and Control to assist in a search for five missing girls. The girls had left the car park at Deerpark Golf Club on foot and had lost their bearings on a steep hill between Howth and the Golf Club. The helicopter deployed overhead the search area and with the use of Thermal Image (TI) camera and Night Vision Goggles (NVGs) the crew located the missing girls. There was a sheer drop immediately ahead of them. The crew used the on-board 'skyshout' loud hailer system to tell the girls to stop where they were and to remain together. The helicopter relayed information to ground units who located the girls and guided them to safety.

Incident 3

In the early hours of the morning a crew responded, while airborne, to an intruder alert at a warehouse facility on the Naas Road. As the helicopter arrived on scene the crew, using the Thermal Image camera, observed two suspects hiding in a ditch near the entrance to the warehouse. They then observed a car draw up alongside the suspects and they both began loading boxes into the car. The two suspects then got into the car and it left the scene. The crew directed responding ground units and the car was eventually stopped and four suspects were arrested. A large amount of electrical goods were recovered from the car.

Garda Mounted Unit

The Garda Mounted Unit responded to numerous and various requests throughout 2014.

Typical deployments attended by the Unit were primarily crime prevention based. The unit also cover public order, crowd control and rough terrain searches.

For example, the Unit helped in the segregation and detention of a number of travelling football fans for the Shamrock Rovers' Champions League qualifier soccer match against a Polish team at Tallaght Stadium. The arrests were only possible because of the Unit's ability to ride into and split up the hostile crowd, and positively identify the main troublemaker.

The Mounted Unit assisted in an intensive crime prevention programme in the run-up to Christmas in Dublin city centre with specific targeting of the Grafton Street area.

The Unit also carried out a number of traffic checkpoints throughout the year, issued fines on the spot, and participated in the "Open City Initiative" during the month of December.

In the absence of specific requests, the Unit pro-actively deployed to various Districts throughout the city with an emphasis on high visibility crime prevention patrols. It regularly visited areas where predominately elderly residents reside to engage and reassure them of a policing presence.

The unit was also actively involved in community related engagement such as school visits, community family days, and Open Days at Garda Stations.

Garda Dog Unit

The Garda Dog Unit assisted a significant number of investigations during the year. Some examples are below.

Detection of drugs (heroin) value €150,000

As a result of Garda Dog “Ben” indicating at a drawer in a dressing table in the bedroom of a house in Tallaght, Garda handler found a quantity of cocaine in a bag valued approx €5,000. Gardaí continued searching and the dog indicated to a pile of rubbish beside the bin in the kitchen. On examination, a vacuum packed package was found to contain a kilo of heroin valued approx €150,000. Ammunition was also found by a local member concealed in the chimney.

Recovery of Shotgun

Gardaí responded to a request for assistance to search a disused site in Inchicore, Dublin. Garda Dog “Boo” indicated to an area around a manhole covered with rubble. The manhole cover was removed and a shotgun in a carry case was revealed. There was also an ammunition belt full of cartridges.

Discovery of missing males, Co. Meath

Following a request from investigation team, Ballymun, Garda handler with his general purpose dog was conveyed by boat to Inchacup Island by the Garda Water Unit. Within a short period of time, Garda dog “Dfor” began indicating to a particular spot. On further investigation, and with the assistance of the Garda Water Unit and scenes of crime investigators, two bodies were discovered. The two bodies were subsequently identified as missing persons.

Garda Water Unit

The Garda Water Unit was directly involved in a number of successful operations during 2014 such as:

- Search and recovery of numerous missing persons.
- Provided security cover for a number of areas during the Giro D'Italia cycle race
- Recovery of kitchen knife used in a serious assault in Cork city following a party. The injured party almost died after the assault.

Assisted the highly successful “Polar Plunge” event in Athlone for Special Olympics Ireland.

Maritime Analysis Operations Centre Narcotics MAOC(N)

An Garda Síochána’s commitment to the Maritime Analysis Operations Centre – Narcotics MAOC(N) in Lisbon continued to yield operational and intelligence results for Ireland and European partners in combating trans-Atlantic maritime trafficking of cocaine. Particularly relevant to Ireland in 2014 was the seizure of 1.025 tonnes of cocaine from the yacht Makayabella, which was co-ordinated through MAOC(N) the centre.

An Garda Síochána also contributed significantly to other seizures made by European partners. In 2014 the Centre contributed to seizures of 7.262 tonnes of cocaine and 180.293 tonnes of cannabis.

The seven participating countries in MAOC(N) are Ireland, United Kingdom, Netherlands, France, Spain, Portugal and Italy.

The Country Liaison Officers (CLOs) at MAOC-N represent the police, customs, military and maritime authorities of the participating European nations, and includes one Detective Sergeant from An Garda Síochána and a HEO from Irish Customs.

Garda Síochána Analysis Service (GSAS)

In 2014, GSAS continued to support the organisation across the key priority areas identified in the Strategy Statement 2013-2015.

Reduced Crime, Safe Roads

GSAS continue to support operational activity targeted at reducing property crime (including burglaries, thefts and robberies) and roads policing. A common theme of the work of GSAS has been to provide information to support the efficient and effective deployment of resources. This includes:

- Identifying the most problematic offenders responsible for crime.
- Identifying key locations (or hotspots) where crime is most likely to occur.
- Provide on-going analytical support to serious crime investigations.
- Conduct analysis of collisions in order to inform resource deployment to problem areas.

Ensuring safe communities and safe homes

GSAS has also conducted analysis and research in 2014 to help support safer communities and homes. For example, GSAS Analysts continued to:

- Examine public order issues, anti-social behaviour and assault
- Provide support for the delivery of the Garda Youth Diversion Project, a multi-disciplinary, local community approach to tackling crime and disorder by young people.
- Provide support to help the development of crime prevention campaigns, providing the necessary information to help formulate strategies. This includes working with multi-agency forums to tackle problems such as metal theft and theft from shops.

Garda Technical Bureau

DNA Tracking System

The Criminal Justice (Forensic Evidence and DNA Database System) Act 2014 allows for the establishment of a DNA Database by Forensic Science Ireland (FSI). An Garda Síochána are responsible for the taking and transmission of DNA reference samples to Forensic Science Ireland (FSI). The DNA Database System is used for identification of suspects or linking of crime scenes in the investigation and prosecution of criminal offences. It will also be utilised in missing person cases for the identification of unknown deceased persons and seriously ill or severely injured persons who are unable to indicate their identity.

Detective Superintendent at the Garda Technical Bureau Project Management Office has implemented an education and communication plan for the Garda organisation in relation to the new DNA legislation. This plan includes the development of a comprehensive Code of Practice for the taking of DNA reference samples and interagency protocols with FSI regarding transmission and reporting of results and destruction of samples/profiles.

To ensure compliance with legislation, the Garda Technical Bureau Project Management Office in conjunction with Garda IT Section developed a DNA Sample Tracking Application to facilitate the management of all information associated with all DNA reference samples.

DNA Sample Tracking Application is available on An Garda Síochána Portal which is accessible from all PCs on the Garda network. The tracking application forwards the information electronically to the National Forensic Co-Ordination Office (NFCO), Garda Headquarters and Forensic Science Ireland (FSI).

The National Forensic Co-Ordination Office (NFCO) is responsible for the following:

- Maintaining a record of all DNA Reference Samples taken
- Management and monitoring of destruction of profile in accordance with legislation
- Management of identifications or "hits"
- Provision of guidance regarding DNA sampling
- Collation of organisational DNA related statistics

New EVO-Fit Software for Facial Identification

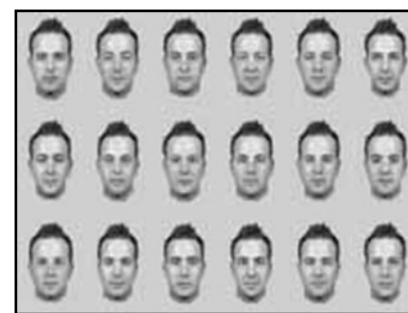

Facial Identification Operators who are members of the Garda Technical Bureau Photographic Section underwent training in the new EVO-Fit software system, which will replace the older outdated CD-Fit system.

EVO-Fit is a modern Police Sketch system in use by police services in the UK, Europe and the US and the software runs on modern Windows-based PCs and laptops.

The EVO-FIT Unit will interview victims and witnesses of crime and produce a likeness of the suspect based on the witness or victim's description.

Uses for the system include:

- Identifying a suspect in a wanted poster.
- Additional evidence against a suspect
- Assisting investigation in providing leads.
- Warning a vulnerable population against serial offenders.

Garda Fingerprint Section

Educational Achievements

In the academic year 2014, eight Detective Gardaí completed their fingerprint training and became fingerprint experts. To become experts, the members had to undergo a five year training programme with the National Police Improvement Agency training college in the UK in conjunction with Teeside University. The portfolios for the university required the members to complete ten comprehensive written case studies covering the analysis, comparison and evaluation of latent finger/palm marks, crime scene examination, fingerprinting cadavers, chemical examination of exhibits for latent fingerprint evidence and the preparation of two cases for presentation and examination for court.

Ballistics

Educational Achievements

2014 was a year of notable academic achievement for the Ballistics Section. One Detective Garda was conferred with a Master of Science in Firearms Examination from the University of Strathclyde. Two other Detective Gardaí completed their Forensic Science Society Diploma in Firearms Examination, also conferred by the University of Strathclyde. A Detective Garda successfully completed a Masters Degree in Forensic Ballistics and will be conferred in Cranfield University in 2015.

The number of cases dealt with in the Fingerprint Section in 2014 was 12739 files with 2315 hits resulting.

Ballistics Section received 778 cases including 73 IED (Improvised Explosive Device) type. Examination identified 19 firearms and the Section issued 657 Technical Reports/Statements.

Documents Section

FADO (False and Authentic Documents Online)

The EU database of travel and identity documents, which is online throughout the EU, is now being implemented by Ireland. Three Irish documents have been accepted onto the system and further documents are due to follow.

FADO is now set up in Dublin Airport and has been made available for all members of GNIB. iFADO (FADO and iFADO are linked systems) has also been made available from the Document Section to the RSA (Road Safety Authority) and has also been made available to the Department of Social Protection's Client Identity control Unit. FADO is the system only available in the Document & Handwriting Examination Section while iFADO is the database that has been made available to all GNIB officers and to selected outside agencies.

Garda Bureau of Fraud Investigation

The Garda Bureau of Fraud Investigation developed a new fraud investigating training course and 43 Garda members underwent this training in 2014.

The course covers all aspects of the criminal law, policy and procedures, pertaining to fraud investigation. Speakers from bodies such as the DPP, Revenue Commissioners, Department of Social Welfare, the Central Bank, MABS and the private sector presented on the course, as well as Senior Counsels Remy Farrell (Cartels and Whistleblowers) and Shane Costello (Criminal Justice Act 2011), on their ongoing interaction with An Garda Síochána in the area of Fraud Investigation and prosecutions.

Key note presentations were given by FBI Agent Gregory Coleman and Mr Paul Gillen. Agent Coleman investigated and prosecuted Jordan Belfort – (the so-called “Wolf of Wall Street”). Mr Paul Gillen is Head of Operations at the European Cybercrime Centre (EC3), Europol, in The Hague and spoke about the operation of EC3 and the important assistance it gives to law enforcement all around Europe, focusing on a current operation EC3 is currently assisting GBFI with.

2014 saw the culmination of the Section 60 Companies Act 1963, strand of the investigative work being engaged in by the GBFI members on secondment to ODCE as part of the investigations into the affairs of the former Anglo Irish Bank Corporation Plc. This offence had never previously been prosecuted in this jurisdiction. After a trial in the Circuit Criminal Court, two former directors of Anglo Irish Bank were found guilty on ten of the sixteen counts under section 60 of the Companies Act 1963 and one former director was found not guilty on all of the counts.

Following the completion of this strand the Garda unit has been actively involved in concluding another strand of the investigation namely the Section 197 Companies Act 1990. This is another offence which has never been previously prosecuted on indictment in this jurisdiction.

Operation Mocha

Operation Mocha is a cross border European wide investigation into an Organised Crime Gang (OCG) operating in Ireland and across Europe in the area of auction side fraud. The operation was started by GBFI in Ireland in October 2013.

The OCG identifies existing and well-known genuine companies specialising mainly in selling/renting/leasing plant machinery or construction equipment/vehicles, and create a fake website based on this companies name. After creating it, the suspects publish advertisements for equipment they do not possess. They wait to be contacted by the potential buyers, either via phone or email and they try to convince them about the legitimacy of the transaction. At the end of any such deal, they provide them with a fake invoice, which they say it is perfectly legal and authentic, but is not. As a result of Operation Mocha, two people were convicted in June 2014 on 36 charges.

Europe-wide Metal Theft Day of Action led by Europol

From the 21st to 22nd of May 2014 An Garda Síochána took part in a European wide “Day of Action” targeting metal theft. The Day of Action involved internal and external stakeholders, including the Revenue Commissioners, Local Authority Environmental Enforcement Officers, Social Welfare Officers, Public Service Vehicle Inspectors and Immigration Officers and was supported by Gardai from local core policing units including, Community Policing Units, Traffic Units, Detective Units and Regional Support Units.

The Garda Síochána Analysis Service (GSAS) provided analytical support to the operation by identifying trends in metal theft in the various Garda Regions.

The main planks of the Day of action included:

- (a) targeted patrols of metal theft crime hotspots.
- (b) multi-agency checkpoints on routes used by suspects and
- (c) searches of suspects premises and vehicles.

The Day of Action led to the arrest of 27 persons for a variety of offences including burglary, theft, road traffic matters, as well as breaches of the Waste Management Act. In addition to the arrests, there were 71 searches carried out along with 203 checkpoints and 53 targeted patrols. In two particular Garda operations a total of 1,104 aluminium beer kegs with approximate value of €110,000 were recovered.

Garda National Immigration Bureau

During 2014, the Garda National Immigration Bureau (GNIB) prioritised the prevention, detection and investigation of human trafficking, with a particular emphasis on victim related issues. In the course of human trafficking related investigations, An Garda Síochána prevented potential victims from being subject to criminal activity.

In October 2014 a Seminar for Senior Garda Management to mark EU Anti-Human Trafficking Day was hosted at the Garda Training College. The aim of the seminar was to provide senior officers with targeted training in this important and complex area, most especially with the legislative recognition of new forms of trafficking that was transposed into Irish Law by the Criminal Law (Human Trafficking) (Amendment) Act 2013.

This conference was titled 'Senior Officers Conference on Tackling Trafficking in Human Beings, Prevention, Protection, Prosecution & Partnership'. It was launched jointly by the Minister for Justice and Equality, Ms Frances Fitzgerald, and the Garda Commissioner, Nóirín O'Sullivan. International experts from Interpol, Europol, UK and Northern Ireland along with Governmental and Non-Governmental organisations spoke at the seminar.

One hundred and thirty one members of the Garda Síochána also received a three-day awareness training course on combating Human Trafficking. This brought the number of people trained in this area to over nine hundred, the majority of whom are members of the Garda Síochána, but also includes personnel attached to the Police Service of Northern Ireland (PSNI). This is in addition to the delivery of awareness training regarding the phenomenon of human trafficking and the identification of victims to four thousand members of the Garda Síochána over the past five years.

Under the co-ordination of the European agency for migration, FRONTEX, a specific initiative with the focus of combating the trafficking of children commenced at a workshop in Dublin during Ireland's EU presidency in April 2013. Members of the Garda National Immigration Bureau participated in this initiative in 2013 and into 2014. As a result of these guidelines, a border guard manual was subsequently developed to help equip officials at the borders of the European Union with the tools and knowledge to tackle the criminality associated to the movement of children and to provide the special protection that children identified as at risk and vulnerable, require. This initiative also included the deployment of three members of the Garda National Immigration Bureau at other international airports during September and October 2014. Not only were the guidelines within the said manual rigorously tested, other objectives were achieved such as the raising of awareness on children at risk and the enhancement of interagency cooperation between NGO's and other organisations

GNIB continued to play a significant role in guarding national security and indeed strengthening international security, through implementing legislation relating to the control of entry to, residence in and removal from the State of foreign nationals. While An Garda Síochána facilitated the lawful movement of a great many foreign nationals who visited Ireland throughout 2014, its immigration officers refused permission to enter the State to 2,518 such persons who did not meet the necessary entry requirements.

In 2014, while fulfilling its immigration control function, GNIB detected attempts to enter the State by persons who had possession of bogus and stolen passports and other documents. The detection of smuggling of illegal immigrants and suspicious movement of children into the country was included in the actions taken by the organisation's immigration officers. GNIB also co-ordinated the removal of a number of foreign nationals who have been resident in the State for some time. A total of 245 foreign nationals who were subject of either a removal, transfer or deportation order, were removed from the State in 2014, 148 of whom had acquired criminal convictions while resident in Ireland.

The wide range of immigration related crime detected and investigated by the Bureau throughout 2014 included criminality associated with bogus marriages, bogus colleges, unlawful employment and bogus social welfare claims arising from illegal immigration.

Sex Offender Risk Assessment and Management

The Sex Offender Management and Intelligence Unit (SOMIU) based at the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Investigation Unit, Harcourt Square has the national remit for overseeing the monitoring and management of sex offenders who are subject to the Sex Offenders Act, 2001.

Since 2010 the Sex Offender Risk Assessment and Management (SORAM) pilot model has been in operation. This is the joint man agement of offenders on a multi-agency basis. The SORAM arrangements apply to sex offenders who are currently subject to Part 2 of the Sex Offenders Act, 2001 and must be subject to supervision by the Probation Service.

The National SORAM Steering Group comprises of representatives from An Garda Síochána, The Probation Service, Child and Family Agency (Tusla), HSE (Cosc) and The Irish Prison Service. The Steering Group has responsibility for providing guidance and support to local SORAM Teams and has oversight of the SORAM model.

The National SORAM Office was established in October 2013. This is a multi-agency Office with staff from An Garda Síochána, the Probation Service and the Child and Family Agency (Tusla). The National SORAM Office provides support to the local SORAM Teams on a day to day basis while working closely with the National SORAM Steering Group on the operational development of the SORAM model on a nationwide basis.

Paedophile Investigation Unit

The Paedophile Investigation Unit based in the Domestic Violence and Sexual Assault Unit was established to investigate and co-ordinate cases relating to possession, distribution and production of Child Abuse Material online. It is the point of contact for commercial organisations, NGOs and Government Departments regarding all issues surrounding online Child Sexual Abuse. The Unit liaises with various bodies to create measures that will enable the reduction and detection of Child Sexual Abuse Material online.

As a result of these interactions, An Garda Síochána and UPC signed a Memorandum of Understanding (MOU) in November 2014 to restrict access to domain names containing Child Sexual Abuse Material. Under the MOU, UPC now restrict access to domains or URLs (internet addresses) containing child sexual abuse material based on a list provided by An Garda Síochána. If a user accesses Child Sexual Abuse Material, whether deliberately or mistakenly, access will be restricted and an advisory message will be displayed outlining the reasons why. The move is a proactive step in the reduction of the availability of online Child Abuse Material.

Community

Garda National Crime Prevention Unit/ Garda Community Relations Bureau

An Garda Síochána is fully committed to and vigorously supports the prevention and reduction of crime within the community. In 2014, a number of events were held to promote crime prevention. Three 'Crime Prevention Days of Action' were held: March 14th against Burglary, May 29th against Theft from Vehicles and December 8th against Theft from Shops & Seasonal Street Safety Advice. In association with these, two 'Supporting Safer Communities Campaigns' were held; the first ran from May 29th to June 4th and was run in conjunction with the Bloom Festival (pictured below) and the second ran from September 23rd to 30th in conjunction with the National Ploughing Championships.

Text Alert

There are now over 580 Text Alert Groups in the country with over 100,000 people signed up to the scheme by the end of 2014.

Text Alert enables An Garda Síochána to disseminate crime and public interest information instantly to local communities and individuals. Registered Text Alert groups receive verified texts to help prevent crimes occurring in their area. There were a number of detections and arrests in 2014 following feedback from Text Alert groups.

Text Alert is a joint initiative of An Garda Síochána, Muintir na Tíre, Neighbourhood Watch and the I.F.A. It was launched in September 2013.

New guidelines for the operation of Joint Policing Committees

The new amended guidelines for the operation of Joint Policing Committees were issued in August 2014 and now allow for the establishment of these important partnership structures in all of the new local authority areas, as provided in the Garda Síochána Act 2005.

The revision of the guidelines is particularly timely as it allows for the alignment of Joint Policing Committees with the new local government structures.

The most significant changes to the guidelines reflect both the new local government arrangements and a strengthening of strategic and collaborative functioning within each Committee. Important changes include,

- Committees will operate at a City and County level following the abolition of Town Councils, reflecting a more modern and streamlined approach to the management of local issues.

Crimecall

Crimecall's eleventh series commenced in September 2014. During the year a number of features were broadcast on the programme. These included a fraud internet phishing scam. The public were offered crime prevention advice in relation to this and other topics.

During May 2014, a feature was broadcast highlighting the dangers and effects of new psychoactive substances and the organised criminality relating to grow houses.

The Crime Prevention and Traffic segments of the programme continue to be a success with members of the public. A number of Crime Prevention features were broadcast during the year with advice being offered in relation to the crime of burglary.

Throughout the year, the CCTV & Most Wanted segments of the programme yielded a very strong public response resulting in identifications, arrests and charges in many of the cases featured.

- There is a requirement for Committees to develop six year and annual strategic plans, and to report on their implementation in Annual Reports.
- The number of community representatives is increased, as this was a recurring theme during the review process.
- The need for a proper communications strategy to support interaction with local communities and effective and efficient coordination with other local structures is emphasised.

Garda Racial, Intercultural & Diversity Office (GRIDO)

On 8th May 2014, Garda Commissioner Nóirín O'Sullivan opened the first of a series of co-hosted Roma Community / Garda Racial, Intercultural & Diversity Office (GRIDO) Anti-Discrimination Seminars.

The seminar was hosted in the Officer's Club at Garda Headquarters and was attended by frontline Community Gardaí, Sergeants and Inspectors, many of whom are also Ethnic Liaison Officers.

This Anti-Discrimination seminar series is to be conducted in each Garda region.

Commissioner O'Sullivan highlighted the importance of this initiative and stressed the importance of policing within an inclusive society, while emphasising each Garda's responsibility to ensure a non-discriminatory Garda service where no-one is left out.

On Thursday 11th September, Nasc, the Irish Immigrant Support Centre delivered a pilot anti-racism seminar to 40 Gardaí in Cork, in collaboration with Cork Community Policing and the Garda Racial, Intercultural and Diversity Office (GRIDO) attached to the Garda Community Relations Bureau.

The 40 Gardaí attending included members of Cork Community Policing, Ethnic Liaison Officers, Immigration Officers and frontline Gardaí from stations throughout the city.

The training focused on raising awareness and promoting discussion about the impact racism has on migrant and ethnic minority communities and how to prevent discriminatory ethnic profiling.

Migrant speakers from diverse communities, including the Roma community, the Muslim community and the African community shared their experiences and participated in the discussion. Learnings from the pilot session will be used to develop further training in this area.

The training forms part of Nasc's Cork City Social Inclusion Project. The Cork City Social Inclusion project is co-financed by the European Commission under the European Integration Fund and is supported by the Office for the Promotion of Migrant Integration in the Department of Justice and Equality, and Pobal.

TENI (Transgender Equality Network Ireland) represents the needs of the Transgender community in Ireland and continues to work closely with An Garda Síochána, through the Garda Racial, Intercultural and Diversity Office (GRIDO), to advise and support the Gardaí, including ELO/LGBT Liaison Officers, in developing understanding and engaging with the Transgender community in Ireland.

During September 2014 TENI launched a concise guideline document for use by members of An Garda Síochána who may be engaging with the Trans community or involved with Investigations involving transgender people which may pose unique issues for Gardaí.

The aim of these third party guidelines is to assist An Garda Síochána in encouraging respectful engagement with the trans community. Another aim is to assist all Gardaí - not just LGBT Liaison Officers - to feel comfortable when engaging with trans individuals.

The previous management seminars, initiated by Garda Commissioner Nóirín O'Sullivan, recently took place in the South Eastern & Eastern Garda regions respectively.

These seminars offer a unique opportunity to learn and create dialogue which has allowed Garda managers the means to develop a deeper understanding of the sensitivities surrounding the policing needs of the Roma community in Ireland.

Garda Victim Liaison Office

In 2014 the Garda Victim Liaison Office continued to assist the organisation prepare for the introduction of the EU Directive for victim in 2015. As part of this work the 6th Garda National Crime Victims Forum was held, the revised Garda Family Liaison Officer policy was published and the organisation was prepared for the roll out of the Garda Victim Service Offices.

Garda National Crime Victims Forum 2014

On the 25th of September 2014, the Garda Commissioner addressed the 6th Garda National Crime Victims Forum hosted by Assistant Commissioner Jack Nolan at Garda Headquarters. The event was attended by Government funded crime victim support organisations located throughout the country.

The forum strengthens liaison between victim support organisations and An Garda Síochána. It provides opportunities to discuss and suggest any developments for victims of crime and traumatic events.

In addressing the Forum, Commissioner O'Sullivan stated she was committed to supporting the victim support organisations that assist in alleviating the pain associated with the commission of crime. She announced the roll out of 28 Divisional Garda Victim Service Offices that will be in place in 2015.

The theme for the event was the EU Directive establishing the minimum standards for the rights, support and protection for victims of crime.

The Garda Victim Liaison Office organised a workshop on 'Working in Partnership, An Garda Síochána and Victim Support organisations on the provision of information'. This provided valuable information on the proposed delivery of services to victims.

Review of An Garda Síochána's Family Liaison Officer policy

In January 2014 An Garda Síochána issued an updated policy on the Garda Family Liaison Officer Service. The policy reflects current practices, new developments and introduces a position of Family Liaison Office Co-ordinator (FLOC) to enhance the level of consistency in providing the FLO Service. There are coordinators in each Garda District in the Dublin Metropolitan Region, and one in each Garda Division outside of the DMR.

Garda Victim Service Offices

The Garda Victim Liaison Office (GVLO) was centrally involved in the development of the Garda Victim Service Offices and the associated PULSE development. These initiatives will be rolled out in 2015 to enhance the organisation's service to victims through consistent service provision. As part of the roll out victim support organisations were consulted and further consultations are planned for 2015.

Road Incidents

Tragically, the number of road deaths rose again in 2014 to 195 fatalities, seven road deaths more than in 2013. One death on the road is one too many, however, this is still the fourth lowest number of annual deaths recorded and was half the number compared to ten years ago.

There were a number of unexpected trends seen in 2014. The number of pedestrian fatalities rose from 31 to 42. The number of passenger fatalities rose from 32 to 39. The number of cyclist fatalities rose from 5 to 13, and the number of children under 16 who lost their life on the roads rose from 7 to 16. Conversely, the number of driver deaths reduced from 95 to 77.

In terms of enforcement activity, although MAT checkpoints reduced slightly (-1%) as well as breath tests performed (-10%), detections for "life saver" offences (speeding, safety belts and holding a mobile phone) increased between 4% and 11%.

In addition, Traffic Corps members continued to educate all road users throughout the year on key road safety measures.

National Slow Down Days

Two "Slow Down" days were held before the June and October Bank Holiday weekends in 2014.

The objectives of the operation were to raise awareness of the dangers of inappropriate and excessive speed.

The initiatives were widely reported in the media in advance, and as part of the media strategy, the Garda Press Office released statistics in relation to the numbers of vehicles that had gone past the safety cameras and the number of speed detections throughout the day. Public and private sector fleet operators were also informed by the Road Safety Unit in An Garda Síochána of the initiative and asked to participate. There was a great response with various companies promoting and circulating the key message to "Slow Down" to their employees. State and semi-state departments, the RSA, NTA, transport providers and local authorities were also involved.

In addition to highly visible speed checkpoints on national primary and secondary roads, GoSafe and Robot vans were fully deployed and noticed a decrease in speed, and greater speed compliance on both days.

Each Garda Division also distributed road safety information locally. All emergency service drivers when not responding to emergency calls were asked to lead by example - reducing their speed, and driving at speeds appropriate to the prevailing conditions.

Public Awareness and Education

As well as education activity undertaken locally, there were a number of national education initiatives in 2014:

- The Garda website published detailed information in relation to enforcement activity, including six years of data for offences such as drink driving arrests, speeding and mobile phone use.
- A joint RSA/ An Garda Síochána weekly radio advert highlighted the previous week's fatality count, penalty points issued, and number of drink driving arrests.
- The Traffic Corps made increasing use of the official Garda social media sites to highlight educational and enforcement activity. The Garda Traffic twitter account now has the largest following in the public sector.
- The "Traffic Watch" feature on Crimecall continued to raise awareness of road safety and advocate good road user behaviour by all.
- The RSA "Check it Fits" child car seat demonstration was one of a number of joint initiatives carried out nationally, educating parents and guardians of children so as to ensure their safety in vehicles.

Driving for Work

Approximately 30% of fatal collisions involve people who "drive for work". A series of seminars took place around the country hosted by An Garda Síochána, the RSA and the HSA to raise employer awareness of this issue.

In addition there were a number of targeted checkpoints in conjunction with the HSA.

Equipment/ Training

The upgrading of ANPR (Automatic Number Plate Recognition) was completed in 2014 resulting in all units utilising 3G technology. This enables live uploads and downloads of data and alert/ warning information. In addition, vehicle warnings and suspect and stolen vehicle details are exchanged between An Garda Síochána and the PSNI every fifteen minutes. Overview cameras were also purchased for retro fitting in vehicles which provide constant video recording facility.

To further enhance the Traffic Corps vehicle fleet 20 high powered Opel Insignia 2.0i "Sports Tourers" were purchased for nationwide distribution.

Garda Central Vetting Unit (G.C.V.U.)

E-vetting

The Garda Central Vetting Unit (G.C.V.U.) provides vetting services to registered organisations on prospective employees, volunteers and student placement positions through which registered organisations permit unsupervised access to children and vulnerable adults within their organisations.

The 2012 National Vetting Bureau Act provides for the electronic transfer of data, and the establishment of the National Vetting Bureau, replacing the GCVU (subject to commencement of the Act).

To facilitate this, an eVetting systems was developed that will enable registered organisations to electronically submit, check and securely retrieve vetting disclosures, and also enable people who are being vetted to complete, submit and check the status of their personal vetting request.

The eVetting system will not only make the process easier for registered organisations and the public, but will also increase efficiencies in the vetting process.

The Garda IT Division completed and deployed the eVetting system in December 2014. The successful delivery of the eVetting toolset was made possible by close partnership between GCVU Thurles, the IT Development team and a focus group representing the registered organisations.

It is expected that the National Vetting Bureau Act 2012 will be commenced in 2015. Once this occurs the system will become operational.

Garda Professional Standards Unit (GPSU)

In 2014, the Garda Professional Standards Unit continued their programme of focused thematic Examinations of Divisions, Districts and specialist sections of An Garda Síochána.

During specific Examinations, the Unit liaises closely with the Garda Internal Audit Section. This ensures a comprehensive and in-depth Examination and Audit of operational and financial processes and procedures.

Throughout the year the Unit carried out Examinations in four Divisions, incorporating 10 Garda Districts, throughout the country. The schedule also incorporated a number of specific and targeted examinations directed by the Garda Commissioner. The examinations identify strengths, areas of concern and organisational risk, and make specific recommendations to senior management with regard to addressing these areas with the Unit also assisting districts in the development of comprehensive Improvement plans.

During 2014, the Unit completed a review of Garda Síochána policy in relation to Divisional and District audits in conjunction with the Garda Internal Audit Section.

Also during 2014, the Garda Professional Standards Unit carried out the following, as part of their Examination and Review process:

- Monitoring of Nationwide compliance with Data Protection policy, procedures and legislative requirements;
- Examinations of the decision making process relating to the cancellation of Fixed Charge Penalty Notices to ensure compliance with Organisational policy;
- Organisational property audit returns;
- Monitoring of data quality in relation to sexual crime;
- Overseeing of District and Divisional Inspections and Reviews.
- Provision of the Unit's broad findings and recommendations through membership of various Organisational working groups.

The findings of the Unit's examinations are utilised to propose revisions and enhancements of Organisational policy to the Commissioner in these specific areas. The Garda Professional Standards Unit makes recommendations with regard to issues raised by the Garda Síochána Inspectorate and the Garda Síochána Ombudsman Commission and alters its focus in accordance with the recommendations of these groups where appropriate.

The comprehensive scope of the Unit's examinations and reviews will continue to identify issues, promote higher standards, accountability, more streamlined, transparent processes and greater efficiencies leading to a more professional police service.

Training of New Garda Trainees

On the 15th September 2014 the Garda College welcomed 100 new Garda entrants into the Garda College to undergo the new B.A. in Applied Policing, level 7 degree programme as accredited by the University of Limerick.

The B.A. in Applied Policing leaves behind the lecture based teaching methodology and introduces the hybrid problem based learning (P.B.L.) model. This hybrid P.B.L. model requires that students in teams are presented with typical policing scenarios. These scenarios and subsequent tutorials are designed to ensure progression of learning and promotion of active enquiry for newly qualified Gardaí.

As such, Garda trainees will be responsible for defining issues, gathering and analysing information, deciding on solutions and finally evaluating their response through the Garda problem solving model. This new methodology is embedded within the B.A. in Applied Policing and it will be learner centred rather than instructor led.

Garda College Learning Management System (L.M.S.)

The rollout of the Garda College Learning Management System (L.M.S.) commenced during 2014 to support the B.A. in Applied Policing with good Trainee Garda engagement being registered. The Learning Management System will be incrementally developed and utilised as part of a blended approach to learning and development for An Garda Síochána.

Officers earning less than €35,000 have had a one three month increment freeze applied during the course of the agreement.

Officers earning between €35,000 and €65,000 will have two three month increment freezes applied during the course of the agreement.

Officers earning over €65,000 to the max of the Principal (Higher) Scale will have two six month increment freezes applied during the course of the agreement.

Incremental progression has been suspended for those on salary scales starting over €100,000.

Max of Scale Provisions

Officers, reaching the max of their scale in 2014, earning between €35,000 and €65,000 (subject to criteria) forfeited one third of their last increment or four days annual leave. This will be deducted from salaries during the calendar year 2015. In 2014, 77 civilian staff were in this category.

Change Management Section

During 2014, the Change Management Section implemented a number of large scale change initiatives to enhance the efficiency and effectiveness of Garda policies and practices, and ensure standardisation of approach throughout the organisation.

The Change Management Team

In October and November 2014, the Change Management Section undertook a comprehensive internal communications campaign to inform all levels of the organisation on new and upcoming change initiatives / projects. A two-tier approach was undertaken:

- Management workshops were provided to senior managers.
- Detailed briefings were provided to our network of change agents throughout the country.

The management workshops were provided to all Senior Managers in the organisation. These workshops gave management an opportunity to be briefed on and discuss the new initiatives.

The change agent teams that received the briefings comprised staff members of all ranks / grades and specialisations in each district, division and region. Their dual role is to:

1. Assist their senior management team in implementing the changes / improvement opportunities locally.
2. Act as local communicators to reinforce management messages and to cascade information to their peers, while actively listening, seeking feedback and resolving issues on the ground.

The workshops and briefings related to new / upcoming change initiatives within An Garda Síochána, such as:

- The performance accountability and Learning framework (PALF); a new performance management system for An Garda Síochána (see below).
- A new DNA database; this will enhance our crime investigation capabilities significantly.
- A new data protection and PULSE data clean-up initiative; this will ensure that our data is accurate, timely and fully compliant with data protection legislation.
- Crime investigation and crime management; this initiative will ensure the standardisation of best practice approaches to crime investigation and crime management.
- New Garda victim service offices

Through these workshops and briefings, approximately 1,100 staff of An Garda Síochána were briefed. Managers were then required to ensure that all remaining staff received briefings on these initiatives, with the assistance of their change agent teams, before the end of December 2014.

Performance, Accountability and Learning Framework (PALF)

During 2014, work progressed in preparation for the implementation of the organisation's performance management system – PALF - Performance, Accountability and Learning Framework.

The new P.A.L.F. system is designed to contribute to the effective management and development of members and teams in order to achieve the highest levels of service to the public. The system provides a link between the day to day work of the members and the achievement of the policing plans and Strategy Statement. It incorporates a competency framework, to assist in managing and improving quality and consistency of performance across the organisation.

National Risk Management Office

The National Risk Management Office, part of the Change Management Section, has been in place since 2010. The office reports to the organisation's Risk Governance Board, chaired by Deputy Commissioner Strategy and Change Management.

The core role of the National Risk Management Office is to maintain, review and update the organisation's Corporate Risk Register on an ongoing basis, in consultation with the Risk Governance Board. The office also undertakes environmental scanning of the internal and external environment to identify potential new and emerging corporate risks, and informs the Risk Governance Board accordingly.

The office also ensures that every region, division and section in An Garda Síochána has in place a risk register and that each risk register is actively managed at local level. Local managers must review their risk registers on an ongoing basis and ensure controls are in place where appropriate to mitigate against identified risks. Any new or emerging risks they identify must be notified to the National Risk Management Office. The office also ensures local managers submit a certificate on a quarterly basis confirming their risk registers are being regularly reviewed and all necessary and appropriate controls are in place.

Staff of the National Risk Management Office also provide support, advice, briefings and guidance to the organisation's risk practitioners – local management and others involved in risk management at local level – on an ongoing basis.

The remit of the office also includes reviewing the operation and performance of An Garda Síochána's risk management policy, and advising the Risk Governance Board accordingly.

In this context, during 2014 staff of the National Risk Management Office undertook a comprehensive review of risk management in An Garda Síochána, and made specific recommendations for a revised approach to risk management, which will enable risk management to be further embedded into the day to day activities of the organisation. Towards the end of 2014, the recommendations from this review were approved for implementation by the Commissioner. It is envisaged that the revised approach to risk management in An Garda Síochána will be rolled out during 2015.

Freedom of Information Office

A new Freedom of Information Act came into force on 14 October 2014, and applies to all public bodies, including An Garda Síochána.

The new Act extends the scope of the Freedom of Information Acts 1997 and 2003 to include An Garda Síochána as a public body within the meaning of the Act. As a result, members of the public have a right of access to information held by the Garda organisation to the greatest extent possible consistent with the public interest and the right to privacy.

An Garda Síochána has been granted a number of exemptions in the interest of State security and consequently the FOI Act will apply only to records relating to Human Resources, Finance and Procurement.

During 2014, the Change Management Section commenced work on establishing structures for An Garda Síochána's Freedom of Information Office to ensure full compliance with the 2014. Research into best international practice was undertaken. Publication schemes were planned. Development of an IT System to support the Freedom of Information began. Policy and Procedures were prepared. A Code of Practice is being developed to ensure effective structures, supports and resources are in place to support the implementation of FOI in An Garda Síochána.

Policy and Planning Unit

The Policy and Planning Unit provides an essential co-ordinating function ensuring that policy and planning strategies across the Garda organisation are channelled to support the statutory function and objectives of An Garda Síochána. The Unit has the responsibility for developing, disseminating and evaluating Garda Corporate Strategies and Annual Policing Plans.

The Unit also facilitates the policy development process so that policy making is accomplished in an integrated fashion across the Garda organisation. It ensures the co-ordination of the drafting, human rights certification, approval, publication and review of all Garda policy. The Unit liaises with policy owners to ensure that policy is drafted to the highest standards and clearly reflects the vision and mission of An Garda Síochána.

Garda Internal Audit Section

The mission of the Garda Internal Audit Section is to have in place best practice internal financial control including internal audit and risk management strategies in support of the objectives of An Garda Síochána as an organisation and of the Commissioner as Accounting Officer.

The Head of Internal Audit reports to the Deputy Commissioner Strategy and Change Management and to the Audit Committee.

Internal Audit advises the Garda Commissioner in their role as Accounting Officer for the Garda voted expenditure and income. In particular Internal Audit advises in regard to financial controls and the signing by the Commissioner of the annual Statement of Internal Financial Control with the Appropriation Account.

Internal Audit Standards

Garda Internal Audit has adopted the Code of Ethics and Standards for the Professional Practice of Internal Audit set out by the Chartered Institute of Internal Auditors and endorsed by the Department of Public Expenditure and Reform as the required standard for internal audit in Central Government Departments, Offices and Agencies of State.

Work Completed

Nineteen audit reports were completed in 2014. These included;

- Six audits of Garda Divisions/ Districts/ Specialist Units.
- Four Thematic Audits.
- Four Review Audit Reports which focused on the implementation of recommendation from previous audits.
- Two Value for Money Reviews per DPER 13/2013.
- Two Joint Audits with Garda Professional Standards Unit
- One report to the Garda Commissioner in relation to financial control.

Risk Reduction

Internal Audit Reports have identified and reported on risks to the financial management and reputation of the Garda Organisation. The reports classify the recommendations made, as priorities 1 to 3. Priority One recommendations are those where both the impact of the control weaknesses on the operations of the organisation as a whole or on Divisions/Units within the Garda Organisation and the likelihood of occurrence is considered to be high. Priority One issues require immediate attention by management. Outstanding recommendations are reported to the Audit Committee at each meeting. Review Audits are conducted within six months to one year after the original audit report has been concluded. In this way risks are identified, recommendations for improvement made and a review conducted in order to provide assurance that these risks are being managed appropriately.

Anti-Fraud Policy

The Anti-Fraud policy was reviewed in 2013 and an updated Anti-Fraud policy published in January 2014.

This policy is designed to provide information and guidance to all staff in relation to the risk of fraud against the Garda Vote. It encourages ethical work practices and creates awareness of the risk of fraud throughout the Organisation.

The policy is in line with recommended practice throughout the Public Service and the requirement to report annually to the Comptroller and Auditor General all cases of suspected fraudulent activity.

The Anti-Fraud policy requires that all cases of suspected fraud are reported to the Head of Internal Audit.

During 2014, twenty six cases of suspected fraud were reported to the Head of Internal Audit, this was a 100% increase on the thirteen cases reported during 2013. These cases were investigated by appointed investigating officers in line with the policy. Garda Internal Audit has noted these cases and will test for similar incidences in future audit assignments. The cases are reviewed with Internal Affairs Section and the HRM Directorate to determine the outcome of the investigations in each case.

Collaboration with Garda Professional Standards Unit

It is recognised that there is a crossover of responsibilities and roles between Garda Internal Audit Section and the Garda Professional Standards Unit (GPSU).

Both units are involved in audit and examination of the systems and processes in An Garda Síochána with GIAS providing an objective assurance and consulting activity designed to add value and improve the organisations operations. GIAS, as part of the overall governance and control environment within An Garda Síochána, provides reasonable audit assurance that significant risks are identified, managed and controlled effectively throughout the Organisation. GPSU examines and reviews operational, administrative and management performance. GIAS and GPSU make recommendations and propose measures to enhance controls and improve performance. Both units have developed competences in certain areas of audit and examination. In some complex audits the skill set of both units is required working collaboratively. During 2014 two joint audits were undertaken between GPSU and GIAS. This collaboration will continue in 2015.

Fixed Charge Penalty Processing

In January 2014, GIAS completed an audit of the procedures and controls governing the non-discretionary cancellations in the Fixed Charge Processing Office (FCPO). GIAS can provide reasonable assurance (which is the highest level of assurance that Internal Audit can provide) as to the adequacy of the controls in place in the FCPO regarding the administration of non-discretionary cancellation procedures for fixed charge notices (FCN).

In June 2014, following on from the recommendations of the Garda Síochána Inspectorate Report on the Fixed Charge Penalty System, GIAS was given responsibility for the audit of the FCPS.

In September 2014, a further audit of the Fixed Charge Penalty System was completed. This examined the new controls in place since 16th June and GIAS found it was satisfied the centralisation of administration and decision making in the Fixed Charge Penalty Office (Thurles) had considerably enhanced the controls over the FCPS cancellation system.

Regional Report

Please find below a sample of the many community-related activities across the country undertaken by local Gardaí.

Assisting Immigrant Communities with Registering to Vote

In March 2014, Community Gardaí from Tallaght assisted staff from the Social Inclusion Unit at South Dublin County Council in local Community Centres in Tallaght. # Statistics

Crime Statistics

Following the publication of the Garda Inspectorate report into Crime Investigation in November 2014, which found deficiencies in how An Garda Síochána recorded and classified some crimes, the Central Statistics Office (CSO) suspended the publication of crime statistics for Q3 and Q4 in 2014.

An Garda Síochána continued to work closely with the CSO and provided it with any information required during 2014. It also worked with the Expert Panel established to examine the crime counting rules. An Garda Síochána will update the 2014 Annual Report when the CSO Statistics for the whole of 2014 are available.

It is anticipated that the CSO will resume publishing the crime statistics as of June 2015.

Missing Persons Bureau

National Missing Persons Day

An Garda Síochána once again worked closely with the Department of Justice and Equality in its hosting of the second National Missing Persons Day event.

Missing Persons Day recognises those who have gone missing and the lasting trauma for the families and friends left behind. It provides those family and friends with a ceremony of reflection and hope and draws attention to the ongoing investigations for missing person's cases.

The event was attended by the Justice Minister Frances Fitzgerald, Garda Commissioner Nóirín O'Sullivan, along with representatives from the numerous agencies who support the search for missing persons, and the families and friends of those who remain missing in Ireland.

In 2014, An Garda Síochána investigated 9,179 missing person reports of which 31 still remained missing at year end. An Garda Síochána will not close a missing person investigation until the person is found. We will continue to invest in, and develop our policies, practices and procedures to ensure they are in line with best international practice.

Child Rescue Ireland (CRI) Alert

Child Rescue Ireland (CRI) Alert is a system that An Garda Síochána can utilise to seek the assistance of the public when investigating child abduction cases. There are strict criteria which must be met before consideration will be given to launching a CRI Alert –

- The child is under the age of eighteen (18) years
- There is a reasonable belief that the child has been abducted

- There is a reasonable belief that there is an immediate and serious risk to the health or welfare of a child
- There is sufficient information available to enable the public to assist the Garda Síochána in locating the child

If these criteria are met, alert information is distributed to the public via several media – e.g. radio, television, social network sites, CRI Alert App, electronic road signs, and public transport operators. The CRI Alert message encourages the public to look for the abducted child.

In 2014, three CRI Alerts were successfully launched.

Extradition Section

The role of the Extradition Unit continued to expand in 2014. A greater awareness throughout the organisation of European Arrest Warrant procedures led to an increase in relation to outgoing warrants being transmitted to other jurisdictions with a total of 91 requests recorded in 2014. This use of the extradition procedures is essential to ensure that fugitives do not escape justice by fleeing overseas.

The Extradition Unit continued to build its relationships with other European fugitive units through the ENFAST (European Network Fugitive Active Search Teams) network. ENFAST has been hugely beneficial as it enables direct contact between operational units with the goal of arresting wanted fugitives. In 2014, there was a 25% increase in the number of persons returned to Ireland via the extradition process from other jurisdictions.

There was also another increase in the volume of case files relating to Australia, which reflects the distance a person will travel to avoid capture by the Extradition Unit. However, through the use of international treaties, five people were returned to Ireland from Australia and four from the United States of America in 2014.

Firearms Policy Unit

The Firearms Policy Unit continues to act as a central point of reference for all firearms licensing stakeholders throughout the country. Staff from the Unit liaise regularly with the Department of Justice and Equality, Registered Firearms Dealers, Shooting Range Operators and representatives from the hundreds of shooting bodies and gun clubs dispersed throughout the country. The Unit continues to update and monitor the firearms licensing section on the Garda website www.garda.ie. All firearms application forms, Statutory Instruments relevant to the new legislation, a copy of the Commissioner's Guidelines, Frequently Asked Questions etc can be accessed by members of the public on the Garda website.

Numbers of Firearm Certificates

The total number of all classes of firearm certificates in existence in the State at the end of 2014 was circa 205,000. Ensuring all outstanding firearm certificates are renewed throughout the country continues to be the number one priority for the Firearms Policy Unit. The continued assistance of the shooting public is paramount to ensure that all firearms are properly licensed and fully accounted for in every Garda District throughout the country. The Firearms Policy Unit continues to work closely with all shooting representative groups, listens closely to their concerns, and do everything possible to resolve any issues on behalf of their members.

Incidents Recorded Under Section 12 of the Childcare Act

Under Section 12 of the Child Care Act 1991, An Garda Síochána can remove a child from their parents/guardians if they believe there is an immediate danger to the child. The child must “as soon as possible be delivered up to the custody of the Child & Family Agency” who then make the independent decision as to whether a) to return the child to the parent having custody of him/her or a person acting in loco parentis or b) apply to Court for an Emergency Care Order. If an application for an Emergency Care Order is made then the Judge will hear evidence from the Child & Family Agency and An Garda Síochána as necessary and only on consideration of all the facts of the case will the Courts make an order.

For the period from 1st January 2013 to 31st December 2014 a total of 1,345 incidents were reported on PULSE under the incident type “Section 12 Child Care Act Invoked”.

This is based on the Date Reported, which is the date on which the incident was reported or became known to An Garda Síochána. Information is current as of 6th January 2015 and is operational, provisional and subject to change.

It should be noted that a number of individual children (defined as a person aged under 18 at the date of the incident) can be associated with more than one Section 12 incident in a year.

- In 2013, 728 individual children were identified in connection with the 758 Section 12 incidents.
