I am pleased to introduce An Garda Síochána's Annual Policing Plan 2011. This plan outlines our strategic goals for the second year of the Strategy Statement 2010 – 2012 and includes the priorities determined for An Garda Síochána by the Minister for Justice and Law Reform under Section

20 of the Garda Síochána Act 2005.

The Strategy Statement 2010 – 2012 is based upon four core values, namely:

- Honesty - Being honest and ethical and adhering to the principles of fairness and justice;
- Accountability - Accepting individual responsibility and ensuring public accountability;
- Respect - Having respect for people, their Human Rights and their needs;
- Professionalism - Providing a professional policing service to all communities.

These values will guide all of our actions in 2011 and they will continue to serve as our cultural cornerstones during the year. They are inherent and sacrosanct and can never be compromised.

We have consulted closely with the community and with a range of partners, in order to place their concerns and priorities at the centre of our plan. The economic situation which faces us remains challenging. I believe strongly that strong leadership and clear vision, along with a continued focus on fiscal prudence, will be essential in the successful delivery of this plan.

Ongoing dialogue and consultation are invaluable in building and maintaining the key relationships which are at the core of our work in the community, as well as in understanding the issues which face the people who live and work there. An Garda Síochána's long-standing commitment to working in communities all across Ireland is something which we must guard closely. The community is at the core of all the work we do; it is our greatest ally in detecting and preventing crime and safeguarding the people of Ireland. I firmly believe that close community relationships and networks are one of the strongest indicators of An Garda Síochána's effectiveness.

We share the concerns of the community and we share their priorities. Our needs are common and we acknowledge that in order to maintain our focus on and our unwavering commitment to our core activity, to prevent and detect crime, we must work hand in hand with the community and the people and organisations at its heart. This policing plan details how we will achieve this during the course of 2011. We will use the resources available to us effectively, in order to meet this overall objective, from individual Gardaí on the beat and working in their local units, to specialist units, national support services and civilian support staff. We will proactively target people who are committing crimes of any nature. We will continue to focus on anti-social behaviour and public disorder, which greatly affect the quality of life in our communities. We will work tirelessly to make our roads safer for all road users through the use of enforcement measures, education and the promotion of a partnership based approach. We are dedicated to achieving a significant reduction in the incidence of fatal and serious collisions on our roads through a range of measures.

All areas of Garda activity will be informed by a commitment to intelligence-led operations, high visibility patrolling and by utilising our available resources to the greatest effect to deliver the best possible outcomes.

The proactive programme of change and modernisation which has been undertaken in recent years by An Garda Síochána will continue through the implementation of this policing plan. Our vision is of excellent people delivering policing excellence. In order to become even better at what we do as a police force, we will provide access to the best resources, infrastructure and support which will deliver the optimum policing service. All new initiatives and projects delivered as part of this plan will be developed in line with the fundamental principles of the Strategy Statement 2010 – 2012.

I am very proud to lead an organisation of men and women, Gardaí and Civilians, who display their commitment and dedication to making the community safe for everyone on a daily basis. As Commissioner, I believe that it is the primary function of An Garda Síochána to ensure that people feel safe, whether they are on the streets or in their homes. An Garda Síochána will not lose sight of that priority. As we implement this plan in 2011, we will maintain our commitment to delivering the highest standards of professional policing for the benefit of the community as a whole.

M.F. Murphy
Commissioner of An Garda Síochána

Policing Priorities for An Garda Síochána for 2011

Determined by the Minister for Justice and Law Reform

Background

The function of the Garda Síochána under section 7 of the Garda Síochána Act 2005 is to provide policing and security for the State with the objective of:

- (a) preserving the peace and public order,
- (b) protecting life and property
- (c) vindicating the human rights of each individual
- (d) protecting the security of the State,
- (e) preventing crime
- (f) bringing criminals to justice, including by detecting and investigating crime,
- (g) regulating and controlling road traffic and improving road safety; and carrying out such other functions conferred by law, including those relating to immigration.

In producing his policing plan the Garda Commissioner is required to have regard to the priorities of the Minister for Justice and Law Reform and to the Garda Strategy Statement. The Commissioner is also required to have regard to relevant Government policy. This includes the provisions of the Programme for Government and the specific Government strategies in relation to drugs, human trafficking, youth justice, victims of crime, road safety, and on domestic and sexual violence.

Priorities for 2011

The Minister has determined the following matters as priorities for the Garda Síochána for 2011, in accordance with Section 20 of the Garda Síochána Act 2005.

Security

To protect the State and the people against terrorism in all its forms.

Crime

To combat serious crime, in particular organised crime.

Policing Communities

To achieve the maximum levels of safety for local communities and to provide a community policing service which meets the demands of the public.

Roads Policing

To police the roads, in particular to reduce the number of deaths and serious injuries arising from collisions.

Efficient use of resources

To promote efficiencies in resource allocation and deployment so as to enhance the policing service to the public.

Victims of Crime

To support and protect all victims of crime and treat them with dignity. To keep all victims of crime informed about the progress of their cases and bring offenders to justice promptly.

Human Trafficking

To prevent and detect human trafficking.
