Foreword

I am pleased to introduce An Garda Síochána's 2013 Policing Plan. The plan sets out the Organisation's policing commitments, and priorities, for the coming year. It is the first of three plans which are guided by the new Garda Strategy Statement 2013 – 2015 and incorporates the policing priorities of the Minister for Justice and Equality. The plan outlines how An Garda Síochána intends to maintain and improve, where possible, its policing service to make our country safer for all. This will be achieved through four strategic goals

- Securing Our Nation
- Proactive Policing Operations
- Ensuring Safe Communities
- Delivering a Professional Service

These goals were decided upon following a wide consultation and analysis process during which the views of our partners, the public and the members of An Garda Síochána were sought concerning the key issues upon which they believe An Garda Síochána should concentrate during the coming year.

An Garda Síochána prides itself on its closeness to the communities we serve. However, as with all public sector organisations, An Garda Síochána is operating under difficult budgetary and resource constraints. Notwithstanding these challenges, our key priority is to put the public first and to ensure that all of our efforts and resources are focused on protecting the communities we serve. This plan reiterates An Garda Síochána's primary objective which is to prevent, disrupt and detect crime and criminal activity and to ensure that people feel safe in their homes, on our roads and in our community. Therefore, An Garda Síochána's focus will continue to be on providing a highly visible presence in our communities, working with local people and our partners to tackle terrorism, major emergencies, traffic related offences, crime and antisocial behaviour while continuously developing our organisation.

We are in a time of unprecedented economic turbulence and An Garda Síochána is undergoing significant change with a focus on achieving effectiveness and efficiencies through a programme of restructuring and reconfiguration of our service delivery methods. This will ensure our capacity to deliver policing services with reduced resources through the effective use of intelligence, technology and the deployment of resources to meet operational demands.

In this context, An Garda Síochána's District and Station Rationalisation Programme is tabulated on pages 19-28. The Programme sets out the closure of a number of Garda Stations, in both rural and urban areas, changes in station opening hours and the amalgamation of a number of Garda Districts. These changes will enable An Garda Síochána to make the best use of resources, and the Garda infrastructure, to deliver the optimum policing service to our communities.

I am committed to delivering policing services that have a high impact and deliver value for money. This plan continues An Garda Síochána's implementation of the Public Service (Croke Park) Agreement 2010-2014 and the Government's Public Service Reform Plan. I am confident that through collaboration with our partners and communities, we will continue to explore opportunities to enhance operational effectiveness, deliver services efficiently and reduce our costs while also disrupting criminals and criminal activity throughout the State.

Martin Callinan
Commissioner of An Garda Síochána

POLICING PRIORITIES

Policing Priorities for An Garda Síochána for 2013

Determined by the Minister for Justice and Equality

The Minister, under the provisions of section 20 of the Garda Síochána Act 2005, has determined the following matters as priorities for the Garda Síochána for 2013.

Security

To protect the State and the people against terrorism in all its forms.

Crime

To combat serious crime in all its forms, in particular violent crime, organised crime including human trafficking, and white collar crime.

Policing Communities

To provide a policing service which meets the needs of local communities, tackles antisocial behaviour and burglary and supports the needs of victims of crime, treats them with dignity and keeps them informed about the progress of cases relevant to them.

Roads Policing

To continue to reduce the number of deaths and serious injuries on our roads arising from collisions.

Domestic and Sexual Violence

To prevent domestic, sexual and gender-based violence and to effectively tackle such violence when it occurs.

Efficient use of resources

To maximise efficiencies in resource allocation and deployment of personnel, while maintaining professional policing standards across the Force.
